Roamin' with Rodney...

"EDP RETREAT RECAP"

Last weekend was our annual EDP retreat held at Henry Horton State Park. It was a joy to spend time with our elders and their wives, as well as eight of our deacons and their wives. Michael and I are blessed to work with a congregation who includes us in the leadership team. Working alongside our elders and deacons for the good of the church is a true blessing. I have always been taught that a church will only rise as high as her leaders and I am confident in the hearts of our leaders. Leoma has a unified group of elders who love one another and desire to work with one another for the good of the church. Likewise, our deacons are busy and willing to do whatever is needed to help the church. Their work is a selfless one of service in the kingdom and their giving of themselves is a blessing to us. Have you expressed appreciation to our leaders lately? If it's genuine, it will be a blessing to them as well as you. The church gets closer and stronger...God is glorified...all good things!

Jerrie and Gail Barber joined us at the retreat. Jerrie presented material regarding leadership attitudes and abilities, focusing on how to develop, maintain, and produce godly leaders in the church. Gail spoke separately to the ladies about her personal life experiences and what it is involved in the development of a leader as they grow older. Together, the Barbers who are around 80 years old, work as interims for the kingdom – they agree to work with churches during transitions and (according to Jerrie) be the "people no one likes". It's not a desirable role to fill and certainly takes a special person to thrive in those circumstances. The Barbers have been successful in this role for seven years, helping ten churches work through difficult transitions. I am thankful for this couple and the blessing they are to the church, as well as to our group over the weekend. Please keep this couple in your prayers as they serve the Lord.

In addition, please remember to keep our elders and deacons in your prayers. The last quarter of the year is always busy and influential for the work of the church in the year to come. I am optimistic about 2025. If the Lord wills, our elders will be finalizing a budget for next year over the next few weeks and our deacons will be working on preparations to achieve next year's goals. My prayer is that we can all rally together for the growth of the church and that Leoma will continue to be a great congregation of God's people in this community.

For the Kingdom,
 Rodney Livingston
